

On NPAs' crisis, Vedanta chief Anil Agarwal says 'there will be no shortage of money for good work'

"I am an ordinary person, who has been laden with ample amount of money, that to in a foreign land. In recent past (on a Friday), I decided to bid for the Essar Steel but needed to have a commitment of Rs 35-40,000 crore in the bank. To try my luck, I just gave a phone call and Rs 60,000 crores was available in my account," said Anil Agarwal, the founder and Chairman of Vedanta Resources Plc.

ONGC KG Basin gas production: CMD Shashi Shankar rejects all talk of delays, reveals dates

International Energy Forum (IEF) is a unique platform that allows consuming and producing nations as well as companies to assemble together. This platform provides networking opportunities to all. We had Group to Group (G to G) meetings and bilateral meetings with companies. During these meetings, the two sides had discussions on available opportunities, Shashi Shankar, the CMD at India's biggest oil and gas producer ONGC.